THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

SAYS---

That this year will be the banner year in the production of farm crops. That's good news—and it's news that should make the farmer sit up and take notice of the things he should do to improve his farm, to make it a better money-maker, and to make the years to come "banners" years as well. No farm is well equipped unless it has properly painted buildings. What is worth building is nearly worth painting. The paint that gives the best service, that best protects the building—that is proof against the worst conditions for the weather—is the Elephant Paint. The Elephant of Southern Alberta is the ELEPHANT PAINT. Be sure and have no others. You will find it on a million farms in Canada, and in the cities they decorate the best buildings with it. And there are good reasons for that. Find out what reasons these are—and examine our colours and see which you require.

Whitla Celebration.

Fine Weather and Programme Draws Big Crowd.

In common with several other towns in the west, Whitla celebrated Coronation Day (Thursday) with a splendid programme, the events including basketball matches, boxing exhibition, bucking contest, and a big series of horse and foot races. During the afternoon G. H. McNeill, ex-M.P. for Alberta, and J. W. McNeill, chairman of the International Dry Farming Congress, gave some very interesting addresses. A large crowd, numbering about eighty-five persons, attended from Bow Island and had a good time. Included in this contingent was the Bow Island Citizens' Band, twelve pieces, the members of which for the first time donned their new uniform, this consisting of a white military cap and a blue cap with white and gold trimmings, the effect being exceedingly neat and attractive, and imparting to the band a distinction that made them very conspicuous. The band comprised Messrs. M. Rygg, A. Rygg, John Tremblay, Fred Hurlbut, T. Ingoldby, B. L. Jamieson, H. Armstrong, P. E. Lindke, J. W. Campbell, J. W. Hurlbut, S. D. McCrea, W. Asp, and the President, A. R. Dulmage.

The music was especially fine, and attracted general attention and approval. The ball game in the morning between Whitla and Bow Island was won by the latter, and Seven Persons defeating Burdett in the afternoon resulted in the two winning teams coming together in the evening. Rain, however, intervened, and made further play impossible, and the match was declared drawn.

Among those who won prizes in the foot races were: Gerald Dulmage and W. Mitchell of the Bow Island team. The bucking contest was faithful in excitement, and one of the horses created considerable consternation by dashing into the crowd. In the first round, a horse named "The King" knocked down and trampled upon. Fortunately, neither sustained any serious injury.

The boxing contest was a good drawing card and a large crowd were present. The two principals, Al. Esch of Whitla and Kid Carl of Vancouver gave a good twelve-round exhibition, the referee finally declaring it a draw.

Whitla is one of the most sportive little towns along the Crow, and to have arranged, much less carry it off, the programme, necessitated considerable management and heavy co-operation, and the Board of Trade of that town, with its secretary, Mr. G. N. Olson, are deserving of considerable credit.

BALL TOURNAMENT.

The first game of the day was played in the morning between Whitla and Bow Island. From a spectator's point of view, the game was really not a fast one, but was characterized by hard hitting on both sides, which, between poor fielding and placed bats, resulted in a score of 13-8 in favour of the Bow Island team. The big feature from Bow Island's point of view was the heavy hitting by Loucks, who got Grady for three two-baggers and a single. Simpson and Mitchell also picked the opposing pitcher for nice two-baggers. On the other side, Heald made a two-base hit, but failed to score. The lineup was as follows:

Whitla—Deming 1b, Heald c, Watkins rf, P. Helgeson 2b, Fuller cf, O. Helgeson ss, McPherson lf, Gordon 3b, Grady p.
Bow Island—Weirnauer lf, C. Jamieson cf, H. Smith 2b, Armstrong p, Carpenter ss, Mitchell c, Loucks 1b, Houghton 3b, Simpson rf.

Score by innings—
Whitla 240 421 448—8.
Bow Island 42 68 102—13.

In the afternoon, Burdett played Seven Persons, both teams putting up an exhibition of good ball, in fact this was the best game of the day. Both teams were in good form and were playing to win. The fielding was good on both sides, and the only accounting for the result of the game is the fact that the 7 P. team is lined up with the hardest hitters along this line.

C. N. Olson umpired to the satisfaction of all.

The final game in the evening between Bow Island and Seven Persons was a disappointment. The game was delayed for the running races and snail sports, so that it had to be called at the end of the fifth innings on account of rain and darkness. This game, being the decisive one of the day, excited great interest, which was Correspondence.

* * * Whilst the columns of "The Review" are always open to correspondence of public interest, yet the publication does not necessarily imply that the Editor coincides with the views of the writer.

To the Editor.

Will you kindly insert the following in your next issue:

Rev. M. Lindsay Wright is somewhat licensed against Rev. Father Enzy's reply to the resolution of the Medicine Hat district meeting re the Ten Tenure decrees. I did not myself pay much attention to said resolution, whereas it does not amount to anything worth while and harms nobody. Still, Father Enzy being absent on his Highland missions, a hundred miles away, and not expected to look at your esteemed paper for some time, I venture to lay just a few words with Rev. M. Lindsay Wright, Superintendent and Methodist minister, concerning a letter of his published in your paper on Saturday, June 10th, 1911.

Rev. Mr. M. Lindsay Wright, Methodist Minister, Bow Island, Alta.

Sir—You are hard on us Catholics, say on the decrees of our church. Never mind, we do not resent it, nor does the Catholic Church at large. We can stand it all right.

But this does not go as far as to permit you to have in black and white such stuff as this. I quote you, sir—

"Simply that any innocent man who has been baptized by a R.C. priest—whether it has been carried to the font by his parents or stolen there by some zealous R.C. servant girl—must be married according to the rites of the R.C. Church in order to be legally married."

Is this your text, sir? Well then, sir, I solemnly declare you are mistaken. The R. Catholic Church never said that a MARRIAGE is invalid, much less null, merely because it was contracted by a priest who is not in use among Catholics. It is not in use among Catholics. If you have seen that in the Ten Tenure decrees, your gleam need wiping. Mr. Superintendent.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, A. C. JONES, P.P., 510 Toronto Street, Medicine Hat, June 16, 1911.

Big Day at Taber.

Taber will celebrate on a larger scale than ever on Dominion Day. The Board of Trade have completed their programme for their fourth annual celebration and entertainment, and the values are expected. A big feature of the day will be the patriotic speeches in the morning. The speakers will be R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P.P. of Calgary, Hon. W. A. Buchanan, M.P.P. for Lethbridge, Hon. A. J. McLean of Taber, C. H. P. Campbell, K.C. of Lethbridge, and others.

The athletic programme will include a two mile race, a half mile race, with other foot races in the afternoon, as well as jumping contests. There will be also a good programme of horse races.

A Medicine Hat lacrosse team will come down for a league match and this will be played in the evening. In the afternoon a baseball match will be played between a Medicine Hat City League team and the Taber team. It will be a big attraction for Medicine Hat people.

There will be cheap fares from all points on the holiday and those who go to Taber may be assured of a big day of fun. The admission for the entire day is to be only 25c. A public dance will be held in the evening, as well as a special programme of moving pictures in the Palm Theatre.

Courtland Hill.

Mr. Barney Leary is giving his house a coat of paint. It is quite an improvement.

Mr. James Olquist turned in with his steen ploughing outfit and broke twelve acres for Mrs. Ross. Jim is a generous hearted fellow, and this is only one of the many demonstrations of his kindness.

Medames Harrison and Dewey went to Bow Island Saturday.

The furniture has arrived for the Courtland Hill schoolhouse.

Mrs. R. J. Shearer is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Shearer, and Mrs. Westlake were out driving Friday evening. Their new horse is quite a traveller.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson drove to town one day this week.

Digging for Bacon's Secret Records

Digging for Bacon's Secret Records

Baconian "elfpher" enthusiasts persist. They are all determined to prove that Baron Verulam created almost all of the Elizabethan literature, and not merely the Shakespeare plays. Dr. Owen, of Detroit, Michigan, is one of the latest cipher-solvers, and his convictions are so strong that he has gone to England to establish them before the world. The following descriptive article, from the London Standard, gives many of the details of his quest:

The man who directs this mysterious enterprise lives away over in the quaint old town of Chepstone, in the ancient hostelry, the Beaufort Arms. He is an Ames, and nearly half a century ago, when he was a young man half his present age, he came through the American Civil War, a grizzled mustache and a hideous mobile. One month, away gray hair grows thickly on a massive head. He has been in England eighteen months, in Chepstone for only, but everybody knows him and likes him in the town. He has a strong opinion that has brought him across the Atlantic, if those pits are the cause of the disease. He believes them to contain, he will become the man of the moment in the Anglo-Saxon world and Chepstone, which regards him with kindly indulgence as a crank, will respect him.

But that is not all; the searcher in the Wy'e declares that Bacon has left a complete record of his life and work woven with the most infinite cunning into the very fabric of his books, in the hope and expectation that it would be discovered by the students of future generations. He found, he says, the master-key which opens the door to Bacon's hidden story, and he proposes to give to the world the proof of what he says. It is for that proof that he is digging under the mud of the Wy'e, where Francis Bacon hid it.

The professed reader of this wonderful Baconian is Dr. Orville Mark Owen, Doctor of Medicine, of Michigan. Dr. Owen is a man of fifty-seven, of extraordinary mental and physical activity, of strong character, and character of a high order. Thirty years ago he became an ardent student of Shakespeare, and his wonderful memory of good as ever today) enabled him to recall the words of the whole of the plays by heart. It was his practice to go through the round of his patients to repeat favorite passages and gradually it was borne in upon him that sentences were found in different places in curious ways as if they contained some hidden meaning. His curiosity was aroused and he obtained a facsimile first folio edition of the plays and began a searching analysis of them.

He has this book now, and one can see in the underscored words and marginal notes that every line has been minutely examined. The result of his labor was what he believed to be the discovery of two distinct ciphers, the nature and use of which he has explained in several voluminous books. By their use, he has unearthed two distinct plays that were buried in the thirty-six plays of Shakespeare. Two of these, "The Earl of Essex" and "The Queen of Scots," he has published. The ciphers applied to the plays clearly indicate that they were written by Francis Bacon.

Boston, one of Dr. Owen's friends, Dr. W. H. Prescott, at Chepewat, gave him a copy of the 1634 edition of Philip Sidney's "Arcadia." This is the book that Dr. Owen to Chepewat. He satisfied himself that it was a word and letter cipher containing within itself the second epistle of the "Arcadia." Dr. Owen, who is kindness and patience personified, hunted for the ciphers were worked out on great rolls of paper, a yard wide and many yards long, all covered thick with letters, circles and spirals, and spiders' webs. Each cipher, he explains, gives the same result in a different place and in a different way—the one confirming and giving point to the other.

I can see a smile of incredulity on the face of a skeptical friend. But who am I that I should deny Dr. Owen what he actually happened. I will do it. I can only say that from Michigan to Chepewa, a place he had never heard of, he was continually connected. It turns out, Bacon was married to the river at Tintners, and often stayed at Chepewa. Dr. Owen, a doctor, said that the slug from the sun, which may turn out, in the way. One of the concrete which covers the treasure house was Wasp Hill; but the name had fallen into the hands of the men. I have remembered that it had once been given to what is now a large portion of the hill. It is either shown that the boxes contained the Bacon records. The men found was an ancient map of the hill, but all that the

It only remains to add that the searchers have convinced the lord of the manor of Chepstow, the Duke of Beaufort, that they have reasonable hopes of achieving a definite and useful object. The actual work of excavation is being executed on practical lines by one of the biggest engineering firms in England.

Every Camorra, says this writer, appears at Viterbo dressed like a dandy. He also wears strange amulets, am medals blessed by the Pope; he is tattooed, in figures which sentimentalism and mysticism are oddly combined with pornography. The men persons at the trial are briefly sketched by the camera of the bandiera of the

"The two of them all in good health except the priest Ciro Viozzi, (who is accused of being in the pay of the Camorra and falsely denouncing two innocent men), and Maria Stendardo. Erricone is thin and insignificant, an rather vulgar. He has a long scar from the ear to the mouth. The others seem to have been recruited purposely to exhibit all types of degeneracy. The general pose of the prisoners is one of indifference with a touch of contempt. Abbatmaglio seems proud to occupy a cage to himself. Those in the bigger cage send savage glances in his direction."

FROM MESSENGER BOY TO RAILWAY MAGNATE
David Holliday Moffat might safely be called a self-made man. From an unpromising start in life as messenger-boy in New York, he forced his way up the ladder of success until at the time of his death, a few weeks ago, he had become the president of two railroads, a director in great insurance companies, the owner of an unusually valuable collection retained back the heat it received it could never be warmed. There are three ways in which heat is communicated, namely, by conduction, by convection, and by radiation. Conduction occurs when the surface of the ground, already warmed, warms the layer of air that rests upon it. Convection occurs when the heated air rises and colder air descends, gets warm, and ascends again. The air currents thus produced carry heat. Radiation occurs when heat passes from one object to another. The radiation of heat from the sun and the earth. In the daytime that portion of the earth which is turned to the sun receives more heat than it gives off. The earth is consequently warmed. But why are the rays so powerful at noon and so feeble in the morning and evening? It is because the heating power of the sun's rays is broken by the atmosphere.

The late George Salting of London, world-renowned for the splendor and worth of his collection of art objects, was a man of peculiar habits and temperament; for while spending "gladly and annually" large sums of money in the pursuit of his favorite hobby, he was in all other personal affairs "of a parsimonious turn of mind." So says The Pall Mall Gazette, which recounts "some several" instances of this Londoner.

Mr. Geo. W. E. Smalley, for many years London correspondent of the New York Tribune, has written a book of reminiscences entitled "Anglo-American Memories," full of interesting sidelights on great people.

"Countess Bismarck looked on at this performance, which she plainly did not like, but presently smiled and said

He it was who put the city of Denver on the railroad map; he it was who sent the first trunk line through its territory; when Denver always responded with his money and time; when Denver accepted his services. In all Colorado in fact, he was known and appreciated as a builder and a constructionist; no single individual did so much for the development of the natural resources and for the material advancement in all directions of the State as did Mr. Moffat. Railroads, banks, and productive mines will be his monument.

He was actively identified with the construction of every road in Colorado, except the extensions of lines from the east, and was the financial genius of all of those with which he was connected. Along in 1870 when the Union Pacific decided to leave Denver off the map and the Kansas City directors contemplated turning their line to the southwest from its terminus in western Kansas, young Moffat, then less than thirty years of age, intervened.

the result that his locomotive was the first to cross the Continental Divide and enter the Utah basin. This locomotive, by the way, had been bought from the Union Pacific and re-christened the D. H. Moffitt.

Shortly afterward he tried to induce the directors of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway to run a branch from the main line up the Rio Grande River, through Wagon Wheel Gap to Creede, then a promising silver camp; but they told him that it would not pay. So he built it himself, demonstrated the soundness of his judgment, and afterwards

The road was the first to put the city of Denver on a trunk line; it was built over a route that had been offered, but never before with success. Even the Burlington had paid $1,000,000 in the scheme.

Once he had secured his rights, Mr. Moffat pushed matters rigorously. Two distinct routes were surveyed and the "Now what about that fourth that used to be spent on idolatry?" he asked. "I don't see it," remarked Mr. Dillins, though most of it had been consumed before the convert came here.

"You see now how to show how generously and unselfishly we give back to our Hinduja Conference due credit toward the maintenance of their religion."

"For the year 1909 our 5,944 members and probationers, though not wealthy men of their villages, and though deprived of some of their best givers by the plague, contributed for pastoral support and missions the sum of $6,090.37, an average of $1.02 each. This represents the price of the board of the whole membership for about twenty days or more than the net wage of each wage-earner for over two months. To have consecrated the results of as many days of labor as the skilled mason or carpenter, each of our American Madists must nearly have doubled his subscription. Our H. W. City Circuit, after paying all local expenses and $450 for the entire support of its pastors, gave $600 for work where. Not all of our congregations are large enough for this. For the Conference as a whole, even such strenuous giving as they practise leaves about half the salaries of their Chinese preachers to be found from other sources. Day has not yet arrived when they shall need no more from the American friends. Their interest in opium reform led them at a single meeting to give $560, even ward treatment for 400 victims of the drug. For years we have been lifting heavily at church-building schemes. Kuykendall preaching place in our two western districts has been the coldest of ground and stands ready with half the price of new church home. They challenge us to meet them halfway with another $2,500.

"Can we imagine that we are making our contribution in the midst of a civilization where every second person makes an open profession of some form of Christianity, where only one other soul in each 600 has ceased to be a serious impediment to the progress of the church?"

SHRINKING ENGLAND

The island whereon our British cousins have their home is constantly shrinking.

It is a long time since Ravenspur was a name of mean even to Englishmen, yet in 1399, Ravenspur was the city sent two men to Parliament; but, like many of the towns in that part of Yorkshire, it long ago vanished as the sea.

In the reign of Edward I., Cornwall measured fifty hundred thousand acres. To-day just half of that is left; the rest has been washed away by the sea. It is said that the sea has eaten up the land of the Cornish, and the Selly Islands lie one hundred miles from the Cornish coast. There are many churches and villages. A line of anchorages off the Cornish coast is still called by sailors "The Puck," was its name in Henry VII.'s time, when it was a great port, famous for its stags.

Dunwich, the ancient capital of East Anglia, furnishes a fine view of the sea. It was so powerful as to furnish the Earl of Leicester, A.D. 1585, with a fleet of by the coast cities in maintaining sea-walls and co- defenses; but every year come storms that tear these parts to pieces. In a single night hundreds of feet of gran wall will be torn away, the massive blocks rolled out or thrown higher on the land, and gaps in the wall of defense established. Trains of supplies are kept at proper points to aid in repairing such breaches.

Interest in missions has already been the subject of two of the societies whose objects it is to extend the circulation of the Scriptures, but these do not by any means exhaust the list. The earliest one to be founded appears to be the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Wales (1602) following which one came in 1607 for the Far East (1610), the E. A. Society (1638), the Society for Sending Missionaries to India (1703), the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland (1769), the Moravian Missionary Society (1732), the Book Society for Promoting Religion (1733), the American Board (1793), the Baptist American Board (1790), and the Religious Tract Society (1779). ²² M. Stolypine's coup d'état certainly recalls what happened in this country over purchase in the army. Mr. Gladstone started out to get rid of it by means of an Act of Parliament passed in the ordinary way, but found himself blocked by the House of Lords. He solved the difficulty by abolishing purchase in the army by royal warrant. This led to a great commotion, but undoubtedly what was done was within the law, and the transaction stood, un-

That evening, while the happy couple were arraying themselves for dinner Jay remarked:

Wheat is King! God Save the King.

Advice from London (England) state that the counter-attraction in Bow Island on Coronation Day had no appreciable effect upon the crowd there.

Our Citizens' Band is winning for itself considerable praise. Those who heard the music on Thursday admitted that even one of the large towns would be hard put to it to find its equal. If only the band could be kept together as at present constituted the boys would stand a first-class chance of carrying off honors at any band contest. We congratulate them upon their performance.

The heavy rains of this week have revived the drooping crops as well as the spirits of the farmers. The continued dry weather was having its effect, and with last year's experience in mind was beginning to put a rather depressing aspect upon the condition of things. However, we can now confidently look ahead with respect to considerable success in the farming industry.

In the matter of the C.P.R. car shops, the railway company seems to be in a bad predicament. If they go to Medicine Hat, Calgary threaten to bring in another railroad, or some thing of that kind. If they go to Calgary, Medicine Hat will probably do something equally as drastic—perhaps change its name. However, the C.P.R. will most likely strike the nappy medium, and place the car at Medicine Hat and the shops at Bow Island. If Calgary gets our gas it will be all that is coming to it.

The erection of the stockyards at Bow Island this week by the C.P.R. means quite a bit to the town. They will be a very great convenience, and one that will be greatly appreciated by stockmen generally. Hitherto they have been compelled to ship from a more distant point, and thereby incurred considerable unnecessary expense.

Don't forget Bow Island will celebrate on July 1st.

G. Hynes played football for Medicine Hat on Thursday against Grassy Lake.

W. Jones is engaged in erecting a two-story addition to his house.

Mrs. A. Rygge enjoying a visit from her father from Antler, N.D.

The stockyards at Bow Island are almost completed and in a few days will be ready for loading stock.

Mrs. J. A. Donovan, who has been staying with friends at Taber for a time, returned home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wilmer of Taber, who have been the guests here for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Donovan, returned home yesterday.

One congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hands upon the arrival of a little baby girl. The event took place at Medicine Hat on June 12th.

K. M. Holcroft made a hurried business trip to Coutts last week and drove out from there about a hundred miles. The country around there, he states, is now thickly settled. The crops looked first-class, but needed rain for further growth.

Clem Houghlin has arranged for a boxing exhibition to take place at Bow Island on July 1st, and after considerable wiring and telephoning has succeeded in bringing together Al Ensign of Whittla and Roy George of Seattle.

Coronation Day in Bow Island was recognized as a general holiday. All the stores were closed, and the majority of the citizens either went to Whittla or spent the day at the river. Service was held at All Saints' Church in the morning, the Rev. H. M. Henderson preaching an appropriate sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Donnelly left on Thursday for the west. Mr. Donnelly, who has been suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism, will go to Banff for a time where we hope and trust the treatment will restore him to his former good health. During his stay there, Mrs. Donnelly will stay with friends in Calgary.

With every prospect of another hot day in front of him, A. E. Werts packed up on Wednesday and took the noon train for the coast, his happening to look back when near Grassy Lake and seeing some heavy clouds forming, he changed his mind and returned to Bow Island just in time to see a splendid rainfall.

A terrific downpour of rain, accompanied by much sharp lightning and heavy thunder, visited Bow Island last evening, and within a few minutes covered the ground with four or five inches of water. The country around here now got a thorough soaking to a depth of nine or ten inches. This should be ample to secure a good crop.

The bucking contest, which was to have been held on July 1st, has been struck off the programme. The committee was induced to take this step owing partly to the accident arising out of a similar contest at Whittla, and partly owing to the fact that suitable provision cannot be made on the ball ground here to ensure that protection to the public which the committee feels is entitled to.

A very pleasant little party was held at the residence of D. M. Garrison on Thursday evening, the event being in honor of his 53rd birthday. With considerable instrumental music, games, etc., the thirty or forty persons that were present enjoyed themselves immensely. Mr. Garrison is very popular in the district, and our hope that he will live to see many another such gathering will we know be generally endorsed.

well merited, both teams playing good ball. The great feature of the game was a home run hit, which Simpson sent sailing out to left, just nicely inside the foul line. A decision by the umpire in the last of the fifth took the anger out of the B. I. boys, and practically lost them the game. The sixth inning was startful, but could not be finished, which threw the game back to the fifth, making it a tie. The score was 5-5.

Bow Island—Smith 20, Simpson 6, Armstrong 15, Pulvers, MacCoun 6, Carpenter 11, Houghlin 38, Heald 11, Loucks 6.

Seven Persons—Miller 25, Graham 30, Everson 6, Thompson 15, Ensign 11, Halloway 11, Helgeson 6, Bergman 11, Darrin 11.

The prize, a Roach outfit, and $10. was divided by the managers of the local teams.

Don't forget the ball game between Seven Persons and the locals in Bow Island on June 25th. These are the fastest teams on this line outside of the league, and a good game is promised.

A ball game takes place at Burdett on Wednesday next, at six p.m., between the local team and Seven Persons. A good game guaranteed.

Winnifred.

June 17th—
Grain in this vicinity is growing nicely and with one more good rain will produce a bumper crop.

The grass on the prairie has made such rapid growth it has taken the moisture out of the ground so that it is getting quite dry to touch. The farmers, however, are turning over hundreds of acres.

Mr. F. R. Hony has a plot of alfalfa in front of his house, lots of town, which stands about 15 inches high. This was sown one year ago this spring and lived through the dry season of last year, and withstood the cold winter, and now bids fair to make a good crop. Western rye grass sown at the same time is growing fine.

If the farmers are wise in their interests they will seed down a portion of their land as soon as possible.

We wish to correct the Cherry Cones correspondent in reference to the discussion between the Methodist and Adventist ministers, a report of which appeared in last week's Winnifred Record. In the first place there was no truth whatever in the discussion that the subject of the discussion was—

—Which was the right Sabbath, or Lord's Day—Sunday or Monday.

Another statement which appeared, and which was wholly untrue, was that "the Methodist" ally proved to the true Sabbath. The record of that Sunday was the true Lord's Day.

There was no discussion whatever as to the true Sabbath. The subject of the matter is that the subject of the Methodist's essay was the law and the Gospel, and he endeavored to prove that the law was done away with.

It was not necessary now. He also stated that it (the law) was superseded.

by Christ. In his reply, the Adventist, Mr. Allgood, proved by reading from the published writings of the most prominent Methodists themselves that the Ten Commandments were still binding and not superseded by Christ. He also proved by writings of other prominent men of other denominations, as well as the Scriptures, that God's holy commandments were still to be kept. Perhaps said teaching is what led our Cherry Cones correspondent to make such false statements as was made in the report above referred to. In this same report, the writer endeavored to give some advice about being loyal to the government. The most loyal citizen of this or any other province, or state, is one who obeys the ten precepts or commandments, for you there are founded the laws of this and every other just government of the world.

In all just society, we hope to see the future our Cherry Cones correspondent will confine himself, or herself, to the truth, not only in reporting for the paper, but in the affairs of every day life, for this is a part of the duty we owe to the community in which we live, as well as to the country we have chosen as our homeland. How much trouble and disension would be averted and avoided in every community and in every land if all citizens were truly honest in all the relations of life, and would endeavor to be peace-makers instead of trouble-makers.
